We all face a raft of new legislative and H&S measures in an increasingly competitive market, combined with a continual drive for cost efficiencies. You need a partner who understands your everyday pressures and provides a genuine competitive edge in your operations.

We offer a flexible range of practical, real world training courses to develop the judgement and skills of your staff, with our professional training organisation delivering a profitable investment for you.

The benefits of training with Schneider Electric include:

- A highly qualified team of instructors with 200+ years experience across a range of industry sectors
- A hands-on approach which gives safe exposure to real-world situations
- A dedicated training centre which enables you to learn quickly and effectively on the types of equipment you encounter day to day
- As one of the world's leading electrical manufacturers, Schneider Electric gives you the reassurance of expert, up to date instruction to make maximum use of your valuable time
- The potential to tailor courses to your particular needs
- The option of training at your site, to get your entire department up to speed as effectively as possible
